Barred Owl Spotted on Course

Dennis Orne, one of Bear Creek's Pass Holders, spotted a Barred Owl on Hole #4. Well-known for their hooting call, "Who cooks for you? Who cooks for you-all?" is a classic sound of old forests and treed swamps. Originally a bird of the east, they have spread throughout the Northwest. The owl seemed to have a wounded wing but was alive and well on the links. Keep an eye out for this large stocky owl with a rounded head, no ear tufts, and a medium length tail.

Dandelions are Taking Over

This is a bad year for dandelions. They have been popping up everywhere after the spring storms last week. Keeping them tamed is a tough task, but the maintenance staff is up for the challenge! They have also been aerifying greens, topdressing, spraying pre-emergent and, of course, mowing the grass. Be on the lookout for seed heads on the zoysia in the next few weeks. They will have a purplish color to them and may make the turf look dry.

Bridal Showcase: Bolzenius/Kruse

Jenna Bolzenius and David Kruse look forward to their Wedding Reception at Bear Creek on April 18th, 2015. Jenna, from St. Peters, is a Therapist and David, from Columbia, is an Engineer. Jenna and David met at a prayer service at their church four and a half years ago where he was playing music. They have been dating each other for four years. Jenna and David hope to have a wedding that is romantic, soft, and elegant. They chose Bear Creek because they like the openness and romantic lighting of the Banquet Room. They appreciated how quickly Sara, the Event Coordinator, called Jenna back when she expressed interest in having the reception there, the time she spent answering all of their questions before booking, and the services they'll get leading up to the wedding, including the set-up, clean-up, and meetings to discuss how it will all go. Jenna feels a lot of pressure taken off of her and confidence that everything will be taken care of by the Bear Creek staff!

Staff Spotlight:

Meet Jacob Weinand

Jacob is beginning his third season with the Bear Creek maintenance staff. He works on irrigation, bunkers, and does weed eating. He is currently a senior at Troy High School and will be graduating at the end of the school year. After graduation, he will be attending a technical school for Operators and Engineers Training. In the future he would like to work with construction, digging basements. For fun, Jacob likes to go hunting for turkeys, squirrels, deer, dove - pretty much anything. Fun Fact: Jacob once called in a 28lb. turkey from 200 yards away and shot him. It had an 11.5" beard and 1.5" spurs and Jacob was very proud!
